Peter,

I am at a loss for words... this is without a doubt the best Honor's project I have ever seen. I am going to pass it along to our Honor's program coordinator to see if it can compete in the competition.

The virtual field trip alone would have been a stellar Honor's Project, but then the encyclopedia of western sand dunes, and all the cool information included... trying to find words...

Wow man... just wow! Can I use this in my classes, what a fantastic resource?

Is it alright if I pass it along to my old adviser at ASU, he will love this.

Are you going into geology? Have you considered geography? Ron Dorn, my old adviser, is a phenomenal guy, really great to work with and knows more about geomorphology than almost anybody else alive.

Something to think about...
